9th International 2
Conference on 5
Grammar and Text

The Grammar & Text Group of the Linguistics Research Centre of the NOVA University Lisbon (CLUNL) announces the organization of the 9th International Conference on Grammar & Text - GRATO 2025, themed Challenges and Perspectives in Grammar & Text.

The conference will take place in Lisbon at NOVA FCSH from 11 to 12 September 2025, in a hybrid format.

The Keynote Speaker will be Elena de Miguel (Universidad Autónoma de Madrid, Facultad de Filosofía y Letras).

Proposals are invited for papers that explore the intersection of grammar, text, gender issues, and technological innovations.

The proposals for papers to be submitted must focus on one of the following thematic axes:

Axis 1: Linguistic forms, constructions, and processes: Plural approaches and new perspectives in morphology, semantics, and discourse analysis.

Axis 2: Linguistic processes and the functioning of texts: Multidimensional and interactionist approaches to the analysis and functioning of different genres.

Axis 3: Grammar, text, and gender issues: Analysing grammatical structures and textual constructions that either perpetuate or challenge the notion of 'gender' in linguistic contexts.

Axis 4: Grammar, text, and new technological challenges: Technological innovations in grammatical and textual analysis, along with the ethical and other implications arising from these innovations.

The working languages of the Conference are Portuguese, Spanish, French and English.

Submission Guidelines:

Abstracts should be between 300-500 words and must include:

A clear explanation of the objectives and the theoretical and methodological frameworks used.

The thematic axis under which the proposal fits.

A list of up to 5 bibliographical references.
